Caitlin A. Agliano is a paralegal with 14 years of experience working alongside attorneys in complex civil litigation matters. She has extensive experience supporting cases through all stages of litigation, from early case development and discovery, trial preparation, and post-trial proceedings. Caitlin is currently in her third year of law school, where she has consistently demonstrated strong academic performance.

Prior to Hahn Loeser, Caitlin served as a paralegal at Walters Levine & DeGrave for four years. In this role, she was responsible for managing complex litigation files, preparing discovery, drafting and organizing pleadings and exhibits, preparing for trials, and maintaining communication with clients and opposing counsel.
