Hahn Loeser & Parks LLP Moves Chicago Office to New Space to Allow for Continued Expansion

CHICAGO (September 20, 2019) – Hahn Loeser & Parks LLP is excited to announce that it is moving to new space at 200 West Madison Street on Monday, September 23 to accommodate the law firm’s continued growth and expansion in the Chicago market.

“Over the last four years, the firm has pursued strategic expansion in the Chicago market,” noted Steven E. Feldman, Partner-in-Charge of the firm’s Chicago Office and Chair of the firm’s Intellectual Property Group. “We have grown our capabilities along with our numbers, expanding into an array of legal services including intellectual property, commercial litigation, real estate, tax, employment and business. This new space provides us with a great platform as we continue to expand to best serve our clients’ needs.”

Effective Monday, September 23, the firm will be located in its new building at 200 West Madison. The firm’s new permanent space is significantly larger than its previous space at 125 South Wacker Drive.

According to Hahn Loeser’s CEO and Managing Partner, Stanley R. Gorom III, “Next year the firm will celebrate its 100th anniversary and Chicago is a critical market as we look toward the future. With our national footprint and our global client base, we have been very successful in growing our Chicago presence. We look forward to what this improved platform will allow us to offer to our clients in Chicago, throughout the country and internationally.”
