Ivan H. Golden, a partner in Hahn Loeser’s Chicago office, works with private companies on a wide range of corporate and tax matters. Ivan has experience in corporate, partnership, and individual income tax matters, and he helps clients plan and execute significant transactions, including mergers and acquisitions, investments, sales, exchanges, and reorganizations. Ivan’s clients have included manufacturers and distributors, restaurants and food service companies, and start-up businesses. Ivan has significant experience helping businesses of all sizes address federal, state, and international tax matters, and he creates custom tax and business succession plans for private businesses and their owners.

Ivan’s tax practice extends to disputes, and he has significant experience representing businesses and individuals in controversies with the Internal Revenue Service, the Illinois Department of Revenue, and other state tax authorities. Ivan has represented clients before the United States Tax Court, the United States Court of Federal Claims, the IRS Office of Appeals, and the Illinois Tax Tribunal. Ivan has also helped clients with undisclosed income or assets navigate the IRS’s voluntary disclosure program and state voluntary disclosure programs.

Ivan also has significant experience in the nonprofit sector. He has helped several public charities and private foundations obtain tax-exempt status, and he advises tax-exempt organizations on the tax and governance issues unique to the nonprofit sector.

Before entering private practice, Ivan served as a law clerk to Judge L. Paige Marvel of the United States Tax Court.
